e General drew up a new plank, which submitted to the resolutions committee this afternoon. It is considered by his friends a better one than he prepared the other day. While it declares plainly for the present gold standard, it is fair to the silver people in that it promises to use the best efforts of the government to bring about international bimetallism. He was asked if he had ever given the matter of protecting silver by a tariff consideration, but this, he said, would open the gates to a flood of silver coins from other countries. These coins are now barred out by prohibitory law. This new plank is as follows: ning of the precious metals we rec-one of the great industries of the United States, and favor its protection and development to the fullest extent, and pledge the Republican party to an earnest and conscientious effort, through the general government, to secure international

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND MAKES CALL ON HIS PARTY TO RALLY.

It Adopts an Order of Business for Believes the Free-Silver Wildfire Will Be Burned Out Before Election Day in November.

AS AN UNFLINCHING DEMOCRAT

HE CLAIMS THE RIGHT TO MAKE THIS PUBLIC STATEMENT.

Hereafter He Desires No Greater Political Honor than the Place of Private in the Ranks.

WASHINGTON, June 16 .- In reply to a request from the New York Herald for a statement concerning the Democratic situation President Cleveland to-night sent the following to that newspaper: "I have made no figures as to the probable action of delegations already chosen or to be chosen to the Democratic national convention, but I refuse to believe that when the time arrives for deliberate action there will be engrafted on our Democratic creed a demand for the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver.

"I cannot believe this because I know the Democratic party is neither unpatriotic nor fooiish, and because it seems so clear great injury on every interest of our country which it has been the mission of you have rescinded your former telegram to me that such a course will inflict a very Democracy to advance, and will result in lasting disaster to our party organization.

"There is little hope that as a means of success this free-silver proposition, after its thorough discussion during a political campaign, will attract a majority of the voters of the country. It must be that many of the illusions influencing those now relying on this alleged panacea for their ills will be dispelled before the time comes for them to cast their ballots, which will express their sober second thought. The adoption by the Democracy of this proposition would, I believe, give to our opponents an advantage both in the present and future which they do not deserve. My attachment to true Democracy is so strong that I consider its success as identical with the promotion of the country's good. This ought sufficiently to account for my anxiety that no mistake be made at our party convention. "In my opinion no effort should be spared to secure such action of the delegates as will avert party demoralization, It is a place for consultation and comparison of views, and those Democrats who believe in the cause of sound money should there be heard and be constantly in evidence. BITTER FIGHT.

(Concluded from First Page.) drags into presidential politics the party tyranny which has disgusted the people of New York and of the United States. "We therefore ask all true friends of William McKinley in the national convention to join with us, his friends in the Empire State, in opposing the nomination of Levi Parsons Morton for Vice President, or any other candidate from the State of

Speaking of the resolutions, John E. Mil oliand denounced Morton as "the tool of Platt," and Platt as "the one-man power that made New York Republicans the laughing stock of the Nation." T. D. Campbell, of New York, said it was a sudden combine of a number of the most disreputable bosses in the party to aid a fellow-boss. "You all remember," he said, "that Tom Platt has sold out the party again and again in New York. By this move he intends to sell out McKinley, if possible. The friends of McKinley should neware of him."

When these speeches were finished every man in the delegation was given a copy of the resolutions to distribute among the different State delegations, and the work was taken up at once in a lively manner. Mr. Miller, Cornelius N. Bliss and S. V R. Cruger went at once to the Ohio head quarters to ask about the rumor that had spread that Ohio was favorable to Morton. Mr. Miller, when he returned, said: "Ohio will not support Morton. Mr. Hanna's only promise to New York was that if the delegation could unite on one man for Vice President, he would throw his influence towards the selection. We are against Morton, and Mr. Hanna will not stand for any promise to Platt."
Mr. Platt declined in the most positive terms to say anything for publication. "Mr. Morton is a candidate for President." was his terse statement, and not a view would he express upon the situation. Others in the New York delegation were inclined to be more loquacious. Chairman Hackett said: "If Mr. Morton is defeated for President in the convention, he will be nom-inated for Vice President, despite Mr. Miller or any of the powers he chooses to

As the evening wore on the question gradually drifted out of New York State politics to one of rational importance. Leaders of the delegations were visited and buttonholed and tables of possible votes were made up. Ex-United States Senator Frank Hiscock, of New York, took a hand, and said: "In the event of Morton not being nominated for President, the vice dential sentiment of the convention him. Perhaps the most curious feature of the evening was the announcement by Mr. Hackett, of New York, that Mr. Foraker, of Ohio, had told him that if Mr. Hanna's loy-alty towards the Warner Miller faction in New York kept him from an expression for Mr. Morton and made him assist Miller, he (Foraker) could deliver twenty-four of the forty-six votes of Ohio for Mr. Morcon, besides many other McKinley States. impure water. anti-Morton element got to-night was from the New Jersey delegation, who had hoped to nominate their man, Garret A. Hobart, for Vice President. In the meantime the Miller men had visited the headquarters of the Maine delegation and tried to induce them to place Mr. Reed in the field for Vice President. While an absolute refusal was not given it was understood that even if nominated Mr. Reed would decline the nomination. The leaders of the delegation promised, however, to put them-selves in instant communication with Mr. Reed and get a decisive answer. If Reed was to accept it would mean a serious deflection of Eastern States from the Morton column. At Mr. Platt's room to-night it was admitted that Mr. Morton's chances would be slim if Mr. Reed entered the race,

So dissatisfied was Mr. Depew with the situation and so disturbed over the rumors that at 8 o'clock to-night he sent this message to Governor Morton:

When these telegrams were shown to Mr. | Platt in his room to-night he said: "I don't see that the situation is changed. Mr. Morton is our candidate for President.
